Special Christmas Display Week Uptown

Will Begin Saturday of This Week, Continuing Until Following Saturday, December 4—Special Features, Street Lighting and Decorations Planned by Uptown Business Men's Association—Purpose Is to Encourage Early Shopping, Giving Shoppers Advantage of Complete Stocks.

The newly organized Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, the membership of which includes practically all of the business interests in the Wall street section, has planned the biggest Christmas display and sales ever seen in this city.

The purpose is to encourage early shopping, in order that purchasers may have every advantage of complete stocks from which to select goods and careful and polite attention on the part of the sales forces, avoiding the usual rush and turmoil in the last days preceding Christmas.

Plans have been made and preparations are under way for a special Christmas Display Week, beginning Saturday, November 27, and continuing to and including Saturday, December 4. Excepting on the two Saturdays included in this Special Display Week the stores will be open only during the usual daytime hours, but the display will be well worth seeing any evening though no purchases can be made.

A feature of the closing night on Display Week will be the special Christmas lighting and street decorations. These will continue until Christmas. Wall, North Front, John, Fair and Main streets will be lined with Christmas trees, illuminated in all the bright colors of the rainbow.

In order not to obstruct traffic, these trees will be suspended from wires attached to the electric light poles. The ordinary street lights will be augmented greatly, new lights of high power being substituted for the ones now in use, so that the decorations will be flooded with a powerful white light.

These features are interesting and pleasing, but the aim of the merchants will be something of far more importance and benefit to the buyer—to live up to their slogan:

"Kingston stores are better. Kingston prices are lower."

The officers of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association are: E. Frank Flanagan, president; Vincent A. Gorman, vice president; Harry Hymes of Wall street, secretary; G. A. Fleming of the L. B. Van Wagenen Co., treasurer.

SAYS HEROISM SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED DESPITE ATTIRE.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Heroism should be recognized, whether it shows itself in a bathing suit, a nurse's dress or tattered uniform, Mrs. E. R. Preston, granddaughter of General Stonewall Jackson, declared in a statement protesting the action of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in refusing to honor Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton of Washington, D. C., for allowing a picture of herself in a bathing suit to be published in the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Mrs. Preston who is a member of the U. D. C., said:

"Would it not be more fitting for the U. D. C. instead of censuring, to recognize Mrs. Milton's heroism, as she has not only been officially recognized by the Red Cross but has twice been decorated with a congressional medal for saving lives on the high seas, a distinction I have never known any other woman in the United States hold."

CLAIMS JAMES ARE BETTER THAN NAVY ARMY POSTS

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP).—Local boys provide better living conditions than many army posts, in the opinion of Major General William J. Snow, chief of field artillery, who also feels that arbitrary cuts in the rations of horses in "Inhuman" in his annual report made public today by the adjutant.

"The most vital, the most neglected, and the most harmful of all of these under which the army is suffering today in living conditions. The field artillery struggles to patch up buildings and worth patching; to replace underpinning before quarters collapse. In the traps of the most advanced nations, it houses its personnel in hovels."

DEBACCHES BY A CAT

Adjutant James V. Simpson of the local police force is confined to his home on Wall street with an infected arm received from the bite of a cat. Last Friday the sergeant found a stray cat on the fence at his house and as he picked the animal up it bit him. Today it was reported that while the arm is badly swollen the sergeant is responding to medical treatment and it is expected with proper care that it will heal.

Mollott Plans Big Improvement

Wall Street Store to Be Permanently Enlarged and Other Improvements Made—Offices and Apartments to Be Installed.

Plans have been prepared by Architect Gerard W. Betz for the alteration of the A. W. Mollott building at 302 Wall street and work will be commenced shortly after the new year. Mr. Mollott contemplates converting the two stores into one large store to be occupied by himself as a clothing and men's furnishing goods store. A new front will be installed in the building, the present arches between the two stores, which were temporarily placed after Miller's barber shop vacated one of the stores, will be removed and the entire ground floor made into one store with greatly increased floor space.

On the second floor, which now is taken up with apartments, offices will be installed and the third floor of the building will be converted into apartments.

New fixtures will be installed in the store to care for an increased stock which the larger store will permit.

Frank Miller, who for years occupied one of the stores in the building, recently moved his barber shop up-stairs over the Kinney shoe store and Mr. Mollott temporarily took over the Miller store and connected it with his store by partially removing the dividing wall.

Queen Marie Bids Farewell Tonight

Rumanian Queen Will Broadcast Through Station WMCA—Monday Was Day of Confusion and Accidents.

New York, Nov. 23 (AP).—Queen Marie of Rumania will bid farewell to her American friends by radio this evening.

She will broadcast through Station WMCA between 5:30 and 6 p. m. from the home of William Nelson Cromwell, where she will attend a conference with directors of the Society of Friends of Rumania. Mrs. Cromwell is president of the society.

As yesterday, the royal schedule was arranged to utilize every minute of the final day here, but with not quite so much speed. Seven motorcade patrols, the queen's entire police escort yesterday, are nursing painful bruises from accidents. One by one they dropped out of the column in an effort to keep up with the speed of sometimes sixty miles per hour that the royal drivers set.

The day was one of confusion as well as accidents. Leaving the home of her host, Charles E. Mitchell, of Tuxedo, shortly after breakfast, the queen motored to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt of Long Island, only to find that a wreath she had ordered had not arrived. She then called at the home of Mrs. Roosevelt but found that she was "not at home."

The royal party then had luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Leeds, the latter the former Princess Xenia of Russia, after which Mrs. Leeds took the queen and the Princess Xenia out on Huntington bay in her speedboat. Before returning to the Mitchell home in Tuxedo for dinner, the queen had tea at the home of S. R. Bedford, international banker.

Upholds Right to Fix Sales Prices

United States Court Decides General Electric Company May Fix Selling Prices on Products on Which It Holds Patents.

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP).—Fixing of sales prices by corporations holding patents on their products was upheld today by the supreme court in the General Electric case.

The suit against the General Electric and Westinghouse companies was a part of the government's war on price-fixing.

The action originated in the federal district court for northern Ohio, where the defendant corporations scored a victory. In appealing, the government told the supreme court the practices complained of constituted a flagrant violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Imposed Conditions on Distributors.

In 1911 the General Electric consented to a decree stopping its practice of controlling the price at which retailers and distributors should sell electric lamps made by it and sold to them. Although it had contended that the practice was lawful because the lamps were patented, the company agreed to discard the plan, and instead to retain ownership of the lamps until sold to the consuming public, constituting the retailers and distributors as agents on a commission basis. It licensed the Westinghouse Company to manufacture and sell the lamps also but conditioned upon the maintenance of uniform selling prices.

The government asserted that the new practice was as obnoxious as the old, and that price fixing even upon a patented article, constituted unlawful monopoly.

Company's Right as Owner.

The General Electric replied that the government had not complained of the practice until after it had been in effect twelve years, although it had been submitted to the attorney general for approval before being adopted. It insisted that as the owner it had the right to determine the price at which it sold to the consuming public.

It also argued successfully in the lower court that under the patent laws it had the right as the owner to license the Westinghouse Company to manufacture and sell the lamps, and to require that company, as one of the conditions for granting the privilege, to agree that it would sell to consumers at prices similar to those of the General Electric.

The government insisted that should the General Electric be granted immunity under the Sherman law, many manufacturers would attempt to evade that law by designating their distributors as agents, and the Sherman law would be materially impaired in one of its most important phases. It asserted that the decision constituted the patent laws in such a way as to destroy the operation of the Sherman law in all instances where patents were involved, and that many of its anti-trust prosecutions now pending would be controlled by the decision in this case.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 23 (AP).—Only a verdict can get the Hall-Mills case in the Omaha Evening Bee today, while news concerning "Peaches" Browning, Albee Temple McPherson, "King" Benjamin Purnell and others who have been on the front page much of late probably will be relegated to the kill book by the members of the Omaha Women's Club who will have charge of the paper.

Say Fingerprint On Card Was Not Made by Willie

Experts Testify That Fingerprint on Calling Card and Fingerprint of Willie Stevens Are Not the Same—Believes Print Was Placed at a Later Date.

Courthouse, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 23 (AP).—That the fingerprint on a calling card found near the body of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and the fingerprint of Willie Stevens are not the same was the testimony of experts testifying in the Hall-Mills case here today. J. H. Taylor, in charge of the navy fingerprint bureau, declared that the prints were not made by the same person.

Willie Stevens, on trial with his brother, Henry, and sister, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, is charged with the murder of Mr. Eleanor R. Mills, slain with the Rev. Mr. Hall, husband of Mrs. Hall, and brother-in-law of the other defendants.

The navy expert testified after a photographer had testified that he made enlarged photographs of the print on the calling card and of the left index finger of the defendant. States fingerprint experts testified during the presentation of the prosecution's case that the print on the card is that of Willie Stevens.

Taylor was examined by Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson as to his qualifications as an expert, with an improvised easel bearing greatly enlarged photographs of the two fingerprints.

The witness was asked if he had examined the two fingerprints and replied in the affirmative.

"Are they the same?" asked former Attorney General Robert H. McCarver, conducting the direct examination.

"They are not," replied the witness.

Points to Discrepancies.

Taylor then stood before the case and with the longer pointer indicated the discrepancies in the prints as he observed them. He said that he found a blank line on one, and not the other, a dot in one showing an abrupt ending of a ridge, there was a vacant space in only one. Cross-examination went over until tomorrow.

Frederick Sandberg of Washington followed Taylor to the stand and agreed with the testimony of the first expert. Gerhard Kuhne of New York was the third defense expert ready to testify.

Print Placed at Later Date.

Kuhne not only declared that the print on the calling card was not made by Willie Stevens but he gave it as his opinion that the print which the state declared was made by Willie Stevens had been placed on the card at a later date.

"I have reasons for my opinion," he said.

There are a number of fingerprints on the card and the one which state experts had identified as that of Willie Stevens was at one edge.

Kuhne based his declaration on what he called "ridge characteristics." At one place on the print from the card he called out a ridge dot around which other ridges had spread apart for it. On Willie Stevens's print, he told the jurors, there was no ridge dot and no opening of the other ridges to receive such a dot.

The witness explained he had examined the calling card under a magnifying glass. McCarver then asked: "Did you find any evidence of an erasure of writing on the card?"

"Yes," answered the witness. "Simpson objected and McCarver said: 'We are undertaking to show that the enlargement of the card shows evidence of an erasure of writing in lead pencil.'"

Judge Parker said the admissibility of such evidence would be withheld for the present.

Simpson objected again when McCarver tried again to obtain from the witness testimony concerning alleged erasures on the card and in the dispute that followed Simpson, contending that the witness was not a handwriting expert, said: "He might testify as any kind of an expert."

"I think it is indecent to say that," retorted McCarver.

"You have little right to object, judging from the way you have conducted this trial," replied Simpson.

Government Wins Chicago Mill Case

Highest Court Upholds Prosecution of Manufacturers, Contractors and Union Carpenters Who Worked Under Agreement Excluding Mill Work Produced by Non-Union Concerns.

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP).—The United States won in the supreme court today in its prosecution of manufacturers, contractors and union carpenters at Chicago on charges of criminally violating the anti-trust law by restraining interstate commerce in mill work.

Industrial, commercial and labor circles have followed the Chicago Mill Works case with close attention.

The government contended that interstate commerce in mill work, including sash, doors and other interior trim for buildings, was being restrained as the result of an agreement under which the Illinois manufacturers promised to employ only union carpenters in their mills provided union carpenters refused to install within the state any mill work made by outside concerns employing non-union labor, the conspiracy being completed by the contractors consenting to the arrangement upon receiving a liberal discount from the manufacturers.

The defendants insisted that the agreement had no relation whatever to interstate commerce, and was merely a wage or working contract between building contractors and the union carpenters under which the latter asserted a policy, long a traditional feature of their organization, to refuse to install non-union made trim.

The government indicted sixty-eight defendants, including manufacturers, contractors and officers of trade unions, and convicted forty-one in the federal circuit court at Chicago. Of these twenty-six appealed to the circuit court, which reversed the district court, holding that the evidence produced by the government merely showed an agreement between defendants under which the union carpenters were not to work upon non-union-made millwork, and did not involve a conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce.

The government in its appeal to the supreme court insisted that the evidence did show a conspiracy to prevent the shipment to and sale in Chicago of outside millwork.

BREWSTER'S FIRST WIFE STARTS CONSPIRACY SUIT

New York, Nov. 23 (AP).—The Mexican divorce of Eugene V. Brewster, movie magazine publisher, and his marriage to Corliss Palmer, beauty prize winner, are now under fire by his first wife, Mrs. Eleanor R. Brewster.

As a step in a suit for conspiracy against Brewster, Brewster Publications, Inc., has been attached for $50,000.

"Mrs. Brewster's present suit," her counsel says, "is based upon the fact that Eugene V. Brewster, in company with Corliss Palmer, went to Mexico and that he went through the form of a divorce proceedings, although there existed no grounds which would be recognized in the courts of this state or country, and immediately thereafter went through a form of marriage ceremony with Corliss Palmer. The complaint charges that these steps were taken as the result of conspiracy between Mr. Brewster and Corliss Palmer to injure the marital status of Mrs. Brewster."

"Mrs. Brewster is firmly determined to make a test of this case, to find out whether any American wife is at the mercy of a husband willing to seek the services of the Mexican Government in pretending to destroy lawful marriage ties made in this country."

GERMANY WANTS MILITARY COMMISSION WITHDRAWN.

Berlin, Nov. 23 (AP).—Germany demands withdrawal of the international military control commission, Foreign Minister Stresemann declared in the Reichstag today.

"We have proven our readiness to fulfill all the obligations arising from the Versailles treaty," said Stresemann. "Therefore we expect the other governments also to hasten no longer and to draw the only possible conclusion from this situation."

"It would be incompatible with our entry into the League of Nations and the operation of the League agreements to make the minor technical questions still at issue an excuse for burdening the German people with a psychological weight such as the contribution of the League control commission constitutes."

Now to the Admiralty.

Hines's Fall from Tree Proved Fatal

Joseph H. Hines died Monday afternoon at his home, No. 55 Moore street, from injuries received earlier in the afternoon in a fall from a tree. As told in The Freeman Monday, he had climbed the tree in his yard with the intention of trimming some of the branches and in descending made a misstep and fell about thirty feet, sustaining a fractured skull and a fractured leg.

His condition was such that Dr. George P. Chandler and Dr. A. H. Mambert, who had been called, advised that he remain at his home rather than be removed to the hospital. Mr. Hines died without regaining consciousness.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, Stephen of Marlborough, and Charles and Raymond of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Robert McCoy of Brooklyn and Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons of this city, and a brother, Stephen Hines of Malden.

Corporations Can Buy Competitors

United States Supreme Court Sustains Purchase Where It Was Made Without Any Stock Interest in Companies Acquired.

Washington, Nov. 23 (AP).—The Federal Trade Commission lost its main contention today in the United States Supreme Court in a fight to curtail the purchase of additional packing plants by Swift and Company, in Alabama and Georgia.

The decision was hailed as a victory for those manufacturers and others who have been vigorously disputing the claim of the commission that it had authority to prevent them from acquiring properties of concerns engaged in the same line of business when the commission considered such acquisition would result in strict competition.

Involved in the decision also were the rights of the Thecher Manufacturing Company to sell the Essex and other plants manufacturing milk bottles in New York state and the Western Meat Company to dispose of the plant of the Nevada Packing Company.

The court ruled, however, that the Western Meat Company must dispose of the Nevada plant under the commission's order because it was obtained while the Western Meat Company had stock control of the Nevada plant. The lower court's order which had set aside the commission's order, was reversed.

In the other two cases where the properties were purchased without any stock interest in the companies, the court sustained the purchase and reversed the lower courts.

Justice Holmes, Brandeis and Brandeis dissented, contending that the companies had the authority to dispose of the properties of competitors acquired by purchase.

W. K. Vanderbilt's Wife Obtaining Annulment

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, Former Virginia Fair, Is Having Marriage Nullified by The Sacred Rota In Rome—Alleged Coercion Was Used at Time of Marriage.

New York, Nov. 23 (AP).—Society, which is still discussing the annulment of the marriage of Consuelo Vanderbilt to the Duke of Marlborough, was startled today by information that Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, is having her marriage nullified by the Sacred Rota, the supreme court of the Catholic Church, in Rome.

This information was contained in a despatch to the World from Beatrice Baskerville, a staff correspondent in the Holy city. The despatch said that Mrs. Vanderbilt had made a plea for annulment, alleging coercion was used at the time of her marriage in 1893 to Mr. Vanderbilt, eldest son of the late William Kissam Vanderbilt, who also was the father of the Duchess of Marlborough.

The plea, the correspondent asserts, has been thoroughly examined by the Rota and a decision reached to grant the annulment, but the decree is being withheld for a time because of the great publicity which has surrounded the Marlborough case.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who is in Paris, is understood by the correspondent in Rome to have been requested to deny the annulment for the time being, and it is asserted that there would be no truth in such a denial, as the actual sentence has not yet been set down in writing although the three Rota judges have decided to grant the plea.

When the World's correspondent in Paris last night informed Mrs. Vanderbilt of the news from Rome, she declined to see the correspondent but sent out a message saying: "Mrs. Vanderbilt has nothing to say."

Vanderbilt Not Informed.

Mr. Vanderbilt, when seen in New York and shown the Rome despatch, read it carefully and said: "Honestly, this is the first I've heard of it. I don't know anything about it." He added that the plea might have been made outside New York without his knowledge.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 2nd, was Virginia Fair, a daughter of the late United States Senator James G. Fair, who came to this country from Ireland when a boy and made an enormous fortune in gold mining in the west. Three children, two daughters and a son, were born of her union with Mr. Vanderbilt. She is a Catholic. Mr. Vanderbilt is an Episcopalian.

The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of Miss Fair's sister, Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, in this city by Father Thomas Francis Murphy. Mrs. Oelrichs died yesterday. At the time of the marriage, it was estimated that Miss Fair's fortune was $5,000,000 and that Mr. Vanderbilt received approximately $10,000,000 from his father.

Separated 18 Years Ago.

The couple separated about eighteen years ago, the three children remaining with the mother. The parting always has been asserted to have been an amicable one due to incompatibility. It was once hinted that Mrs. Vanderbilt would seek a divorce, but she refrained from doing so owing to religious scruples, the Catholic church forbidding divorce.

Daughters Are Married.

Both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt are married. They were reared in the Catholic faith by their mother. Mariel Vanderbilt was married in Newport by an Episcopalian clergyman to Frederick Cameron Church, who was said at the time to have objected to the rule of the Catholic church requiring children born of such a union to be brought up as Catholics. Consuelo, the other daughter, named after the Duchess of Marlborough, was married by Father Murphy at the Vanderbilt home here to Earl E. T. Smith. On the same day, in the same house, but not at the same time, Mr. and Mrs. Church were married by Father Murphy.

Snow began falling in the region about Burlington in the early morning.

Pork is most expensive when they call it chicken salad.

Britten—"Beg pardon?"

Goldie—"Doesn't my wife sing sweetly?"

Britten—"I can't hear a word you say, on account of that woman's howling so."

I don't know why this should be so. They haven't anywhere to go.

Nowhere to go? Well, if you please. They have to sail the seven seas. Also they must be on their way from Maine to the Vesuvian Bay. No doubt one of their hardest duties is to review the bathing beauties.

Landlord—"You didn't pay the rent for last month."

Tenant—"No? I suppose you'll hold to your agreement?"

Landlord—"Agreement? What agreement?"

Tenant—"Why, when I took this place you said I must pay in advance or not at all."

A Kingston woman teacher, in trying to explain the meaning of the word "slowly," illustrated it by walking across the floor.

When she asked the class to tell her how she walked, she nearly fainted when a boy at the foot of the class shouted, "Bow-legged, ma'am!"

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 23, 1926.

The defeat of Gov. Nellie Ross of Wyoming has followed the defeat of Gov. "Ma" Ferguson of Texas. Apparently both states are of the opinion that trying it once was enough.

Western farmers, according to a correspondent of the New York Times, have been "surprisingly at ease in the Queen's presence." They would be, as compared with some of the anxious social climbers in the Eastern States.

Although England has a great army of the unemployed, London's want ads seem to find it necessary to offer house maids and cooks such extra inducements as ten weeks' holiday in the year, own bathroom, "also radio," and "outings assisted by car if desired."

The news that the fashion of smoking by women is "going out" in Paris will give needed encouragement to American and English women who affect it without liking it. There are real addicts among women in all countries, however, and these will face the average male smoker's inability to give up the habit.

We read that the one per cent of the Russians who rule a nation of 140,000,000 have issued new edicts in the form of a "Communist Decalogue," one of these "ten commandments" announcing that "thou shalt not attempt to dupe the party by proposing a democratic regime in its organization." These commands are signed by Comrade Stalin, successor of Lenin. How long will it be before the 140,000,000 begin to suspect that "comrade" and "communist" are terms packed with grinning sarcasm?

The anti-prohibition press is making merry over the announcement that General Andrews has a new bill for Congress to pass, not just another bill this time "to make enforcement bigger, better, and much more expensive," but a bill—providing "a jolt for the Anti-Saloon League"—to authorize the government of the United States "to manufacture whiskey for medicinal purposes." It seems that there is already "medicinal whiskey" under government control in thirty-seven warehouses, but as about two million gallons of it are being withdrawn annually, the supply is running low—an alarmingly impending shortage described by General Andrews as an "emergency."

THE CITY OF THE FUTURE.

The great city of the future will have its sky darkened with roaring airplanes and the roofs of its buildings will serve as landing fields; it will have elevated streets running one way and depressed streets running the other way to relieve traffic congestion; and of course the clanger, crash and incessant din in general will be terrific. Such, in outline, is the picture presented and the prediction made by Thomas A. Edison in The Forum. About the only hope he offers those who will live to see it is that they will develop a measure of protective deafness.

One is reminded, by contrast, of the peaceful atmosphere in the Sequoia-natalia's "High Street"—a reproduction of a part of old Philadelphia in George Washington's time—and of the not infrequently expressed wish that one might have lived the simple life of those times. There will be as much difference between present conditions and those of Edison's future city as there is between the noisy now and Washington's quiet era. Those whose business requires their presence in "the future city" will have to move to far-reaching suburbs, or develop more undoubtable ailments than a partial deafness.

CLERICALISM IN POLITICS.

Noting with regret that we now have "clerical organizations, organizations formed and directed by men behind the Gospel, actively engaged in politics, lobbying for legislation, establishing themselves as permanent agencies for influencing legislation and executive and even courts, and continuing rapidly directly in the activities of law enforcement," the Chicago Tribune severely declares that "clericalism in politics is an issue of the gravest moment in our country."

today." Why? Why should not the professional representatives of religion undertake to make "righteousness prevail in politics and government"? The Chicago Tribune's answer to this question, its notable answer, is that "this is a perversion of the priestly function," producing "that confusion of the distinction between Church and State which has had the most deplorable consequences to both in past times"—and further, in part:

The function of the clergyman is to teach and illuminate religious truths, to labor with the conscience of men to make them better and thus to induce right conduct in private and public life. . . . (When clergymen undertake the function of laymen and go actively into politics) they prepare consequences, as human experience has repeatedly demonstrated, which are demoralizing to both religion and government. We have not only illustration of what happens to ministers who undertake to force political results by political means but we also have presently a reaction upon the public mind, and especially upon the mind of youth, which will be profoundly injurious to the influences of the clergy and the church within their own proper spheres.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)
 HEAT IS LIFE.

The Japanese army during their war with Russia carried huge barrels or hogsheads, which were filled at night with hot water, after the toils of the day.

Why? Because heat hastens all the chemical actions of the body, and so the soreness, and the stiffness, is carried away by the opening up of the bloodvessels of the parts that are so stiff and sore.

The blood carries within itself the little bodies, or anti bodies as they are called, which actually have the power of dissolving those products that are manufactured in the muscles and other tissues by work or injury. You see the heat does the two things; it dilates the blood vessels of the part so that the blood will get there, and it energizes or gives more life and power to these little bodies that do the dissolving. This explains also why you get such relief from pain from the application of heat. These little waste products in the body from effort, from injury, from infection, can actually press upon the little nerve endings in the part, and give pain.

It also explains why it is possible after severe injuries to joints and muscles, to remove the fibrous tissue which causes the stiffness and prevents proper use of the part.

A valuable point to remember just in this connection, is that if you have a stiff joint, it is wise to use heat just before you try to loosen it up by movements or exercise. Then after a few minutes of the heat, you can use the joint to a considerable extent, and then finally use heat again to take away any products you have manufactured or broken down by the exercise.

Our medical schools are now giving more attention to teaching the benefits to be derived from heat, by electricity and otherwise, because as mentioned before, heat is life and anything that will hasten cell activity is just that much help to Nature.

SAUGERTIES RECTOR GIVEN RECEPTION.

The congregation of the Trinity Episcopal Church at Saugerties gave the Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Howe and family a reception in the parish house on Barclay Heights, Saugerties, last Sunday evening. A very large attendance was present and fine music was rendered as were hymns sung during the evening. The Hon. John T. Washburn gave an excellent talk and a hearty welcome to the entire family. E. L. Rogers also spoke of the life of Trinity Church after which the Rev. E. L. Howe gave an address of his former travels and outlined the future, with many advancements to the welfare of the congregation. Refreshments were served and a social hour brought the affair to a close.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Patriots Destroy Plant of James Rivington, Tory Publisher, November 23, 1775.

The exploit of August 23, 1775, whereby the patriots, under the leadership of Captain John Lamb and Captain Isaac Sears, removed the British artillery from the Battery and the fort and secreted it on the King's College grounds caused a wide gulf between the Whigs and Tories.

In the name of patriotism many other acts of lawlessness were perpetrated, not only by irresponsible mobs but by organized parties. In some instances, there were causes for such misdemeanors.

One of the most earnest, active and pugnacious of the "Sons of Liberty" in New York, was Isaac Sears. He had been a merchant, then a privateer from 1758 to 1761, until he lost his vessel, then again became a merchant.

After the passage of the Stamp Act Captain Sears, as he was commonly known, became a prominent leader of the opposition to that measure. He was thoroughly hated by the government and the Tory party, and was in custody on a charge of treason when the news of Lexington reached New York.

Because of his leadership, his enemies called him "King Sears." He was maligned, caricatured, satirized and made the object of Tory squibs and epigrams. James Rivington, the royalist publisher, abused him in his "New York Gazetteer" without stint.

Fired by his personal abuse and patriotic zeal, Sears went temporarily to Connecticut, and at noon on November 23, 1775, entered New York City at the head of a company of light-horsemen from that state, rode up to the printing office of Rivington, foot of Wall street, placed a guard around it, entered the building, put the type into bags, destroyed the press and other appurtenances, and then rode out of the city amid the shouts of the populace and to the tune of Yankee Doodle. The type was carried to New Haven where it was cast into bullets.

This self-appointed vigilance committee had previously invaded Westchester and arrested three reputable citizens, alleged to be offensive partisans of the king. On their return to Connecticut the horsemen received an ovation from the populace, including the firing of cannon.

Sears, the leader of this committee, in the spring of 1776 became General Charles Lee's adjutant, and served in the patriot army throughout the war. When peace was attained his business and fortune were gone.

In 1785 we find him on the ocean as super cargo bound for Canton, China. He was very ill on his arrival there, and died October 28, 1776. He was buried on French Island, and his companions placed a slab at his grave with a suitable inscription. He was aged 67 years.

Rivington, the victim of Sears and his horsemen, was born in London about 1724, where he became a bookseller, but failing in this enterprise, he emigrated to America in 1750 and settled in Philadelphia where he opened a bookstore. In 1761 he removed to New York City and opened a bookstore at the foot of Wall street.

Being a man of considerable education and some social accomplishments, though of little principle, he acquired a degree of prominence in the colony.

His "New York Gazetteer" started April 22, 1773, was ably conducted and the most important paper in the British interest in America. Its news was more abundant than reliable. His attacks upon the patriots and their cause led to reprisals. To sarcasm he added good-natured ridicule.

Rivington's conduct was the subject of inquiry on the part of both the Provincial and the Continental Congress early in 1775, and he seems to have been for a time in confinement.

Immediately after his printing plant was destroyed by Sears he fled to England. There he received the appointment of printer to the King in New York, and he returned with a new press and types after the British occupancy of New York City and resumed the publication of his paper under the title of "Rivington's New York Legal Gazette," but in December, 1777, changed the title to "Royal Gazette." Its character for fairness and accuracy had not improved, and the Whigs called it the "Lying Gazette."

Always shrewd and unscrupulous, after the defeat of Cornwallis in 1781, despairing of British success, he became a spy, and supplied secret information to General Washington concerning public affairs in the city. This treason was practiced until the evacuation of the city by the British. When the loyalists fled and the American army entered the city, November 25, 1783, Rivington remained unharmed, much to the astonishment of those not in the secret.

He changed the name of his paper to Rivington's New York Gazette and Universal Advertiser, but his business rapidly declined, for the victorious party, who had defended him as an enemy, liked him no better as a convert. He fell into debt and poverty, and died in New York City July 4, 1802.

TEACHERS BENEFITED BY EXTENSION WORK COURSE

The first fifteen-lesson course in connection with the New Paltz Normal extension work at Kingston closed November 13. There were about thirty teachers attending this session and "a good time was had by all."

The first course was on geography and consisted of both methods and subject matter. Miss Nichols of New Paltz who had charge of the course is a most capable instructor and all the students enjoyed her work exceedingly.

Projects and problem studies were discussed and worked out by the teachers. Some work on various geographical regions was also covered. A number of pictures were brought in and the class under the direction of Miss Nichols talked about their value in school work. On the last Saturday afternoon Miss Nichols gave her class a fascinating account of her trip to Europe last summer. She had a large assortment of views and many articles which she had brought home with her. At the close of her talk the class gave Miss Nichols a vote of thanks for her excellent work during the session.

The second extension course will meet in the Kingston High School on Saturday, December 4. This course will take up the study of principles of education. All teachers who can possibly do so are invited to avail themselves of these opportunities. Even if they do not intend to go on with the resident work at Normal School, it gives a splendid chance to broaden their professional outlook and to come into closer acquaintance with the other teachers of the county.

They called him Artie because everybody hoped he'd choke.

Popular Saturday Night at Y.M.C.A.

The Y's Men's Club of the Y. M. C. A. held their first popular Saturday night last Saturday. The program started promptly at 8 o'clock with an introductory on the piano of "Hello Aloha". The Boys' Student B Class from the boys' division followed with a well executed maze run and short free hand drill. The program was then changed for the benefit of the Albany Volley Ball artists as they wished to get an earlier start home than would have been possible otherwise.

Five intensive volley ball games were then played. The team representing Kingston being made up from the business men's classes of the local association and they provided some sweet opposition to the up-river stars. Stars is right for Albany had one spiker that looked to be nearly nine feet tall. All he had to do was reach up and smack down on the ball. Nothing but solid floors or walls could stop a wallop like he had. Gordon Craig is probably the tallest spiker for Kingston while Chet Dolson can leap the highest. It was through their fine offensive aid and abetted by the rest of the team that the scores were as close as they were. The scores in their order were:

First game—Albany, 15; Kingston, 7.
Second game—Albany, 15; Kingston, 10.
Third game—Albany, 6; Kingston, 15.
Fourth game—Albany, 15; Kingston, 11.
Fifth game—Albany, 15; Kingston, 11.

After the volley ball the youngsters had another chance to show their wares and produced quite a bit of mirth in three group games between a team of reds and a team of whites. The first game, "Izzy Dizzy", was won by the whites. The second "Kangeroos" by the reds and the third, "Basketball Relay", by the whites. The whole evening's entertainment wound up in a real rough and ready hockey game between the warring factions, which was finally won by the reds, 3 to 1. There were about 200 spectators present.

Next Saturday the volley ball team motors to Stamford, Conn. for a game with the Y. M. C. A. team there and hopes to hit their stride, barring accidents and slivers.

The program for the popular Saturday night here is going to show some other phases of gymnasium activities which will be educational as well as mirthful.

Unbeaten Eleven Here Thursday

Yellow Jackets Will Meet the Bear Cat A. C. at the Fair Grounds Thanksgiving Day at 2:30 o'clock. The Bear Cat A. C., champion of Troy, will meet the Yellow Jackets in their eighth game of the season at the Fair Grounds on Thanksgiving Day afternoon in probably the greatest football classic to be held in Kingston in a good many years.

These up-state champions will give the Kingstonians their hardest test of the season in this holiday struggle as the Bear Cats have not been beaten in two years. Seven games the Troy champions have played this season and an opposing team has not scored on them in all these contests. The Troy outfit has encountered but one team in all its battles that has been able to hold this championship aggregation to but one touchdown.

Monday night the Yellow Jacket squad worked hard under the armory lights for the big contest. The Yellow Jacket warriors will fight for this outstanding encounter. The Kingstonians have hung up six victories this season and have exhibited much brilliant playing in contests at the Fair Grounds. Whether the Yellow Jackets have taken a bigger bite than they can chew will be decided on Thanksgiving Day.

Although it will be the greatest attraction at the Fair Grounds' gridiron of the season, the usual admission price will be charged. The contest will start at 2:30.

Final Grid Games On Thanksgiving

New York, Nov. 23 (AP)—Gruelling drives that marked early season preparation for major conflicts are absent this week as many ancient foes jog through workouts for final battles of the eastern football season on Thanksgiving Day. Coaching staffs have the feeling today that peak condition, if not already acquired, cannot be gained in last minute workouts and time for the learning of fundamentals has passed. As a result the men of Brown, who have shored the Bear to a commanding position in the chase for the eastern title, are talking over the battle strategy to be used against Colgate on the holiday morning. Brown expects the hardest struggle of the year in the final conflict but dummy scrimmage alone and final polishing of the offense form the schedules for remaining workouts. Colgate, too, has taken its last heavy scrimmage drill against Brown plays and entrains today for Providence.

Each of the regulars in the Penn lineup who will start against Cornell at Philadelphia have had their last scrimmage of the year. Five minutes was allotted a man. Then the charge of each lineman was examined and overhauled, the duty of each back on each play was rehearsed, and the squad trotted off the field the season's practice over. Today the squad is at a country club near Philadelphia awaiting game time. Passing and kicking feature the light drills of Cornell where the eleven men who staged the astonishing last quarter struggle to victory over Dartmouth are being primed for Penn.

The finishing touches are being lightly applied at Columbia for the Syracuse clash. Dummy scrimmage and individual work with the forward wall are scheduled for today. The Syracuse eleven has had its last drill against Columbia plays and will leave for New York Wednesday. "Whippet" Carr, Orange backfield star, is ready for action but will be held in abeyance until a scoring opportunity presents itself.

DAWES PRAISES THE NORTHWESTERN ELEVEN.

Chicago, Nov. 23 (AP)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes put aside his official cloak last night and became a plain citizen proud of his home town—Evanston—and of the Northwestern football team that "put it on the map".

Carrying his famous underarm pipe, the vice president rode to Fountain Square on a fire truck, and from that improvised rostrum told 15,000 students and fellow townsmen celebrating Northwestern's conference tie with Michigan, what he thought of the team, unimpaired of two snowballs that smacked against the side of the vehicle.

Incidentally those two snowballs represented the nearest approach to disorder, as recollections came of last year's celebration when several policemen were sent to a hospital and an old fraternity house was burned.

"The Northwestern University football team has put Evanston on the map," said Mr. Dawes in a brief speech. "If you are worth the powder and shot to blow you up, you'll keep Evanston on the map."

SAYS POWER OF PRAYER HELPED PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia, Nov. 23 (AP)—Members of the University of Pennsylvania football team have played squarely and cleanly this season because they have resorted to the power of prayer, the Rev. John R. Hart, chaplain of the Red and Blue gridmen said today.

Mr. Hart added that no more prayer meetings have been held nor had the men prayed for victory, but each one in the privacy of his own room, had asked for a "beer and trout" extension of life while they were in action.

"I am glad to say that Pennsylvania's players in the vast majority, those who are on the team today, and those with which I have worked for ten years as chaplain, believe in and practice prayer," he added.

Army Looks for A Hard Fight

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP)—The closest and hardest fought Army-Navy game of the past ten years is Coach Bill Jones' sole prediction as to what will happen in Chicago Saturday when the Middles and Cadets stage their annual clash.

"Nobody could predict the winner and keep a straight face while doing it," Jones added. "The Navy has one of the best teams in the country this year. It has looked good in every game."

The excitement of the Navy game, gripping the Cadets as no other contest of the season, expressed itself in roaring cheers and blaring marching songs as the student body gathered about the eleven in practice and showed the players samples of the noise that will bear down upon them from the Army stands Saturday. There was no real scrimmage for the regulars, just a dummy workout against Navy formations combined with much picking and passing.

BOWLING EVENTS ON Y. M. C. A. ALLEYS

Ohio Team Leader

To this young man of twenty-three summers will go the distinction of leading the first Big Ten football team to invade New York City. He is Marty Karow, captain and fullback of the 1926 Ohio State eleven. On October 16 the Buckeyes met Columbia at the Polo grounds in Gotham in one of the year's important inter-collegiate engagements. It will also be the first appearance of an Ohio State or Western conference football team in the metropolis. Karow, who is from Cleveland, Ohio, is playing his third year on the varsity. He also is star shortstop on the baseball team.

Grangeless Illini May Be Better Gridiron Team

With practically a veteran line from end to end and a green but promising back field, the outlook for a good football team at the University of Illinois is excellent. "Red" Grange is gone but if the new backs live up to expectations Illinois may be stronger than last year.

For three years Coach Zuppke has built his attack around one brilliant player. Grange's fellow backs have been effective cogs in the masterful interference machine which helped "Red" to make the most of his superior ability, but usually good for only short gains themselves. Now Zuppke hopes to develop a back field of balanced ground-gaining power even if no one player comes near to approaching Grange.

Out of the 22 players who received varsity letters last season, there are 10 are gone: Lawrence—Brown, Outridge, Whitman, Fisher; red—Muller; backs—Gibson, Patton, Hall, Greenhouse, Jantz.

Rich in Precious Metals

Mexico, the United States, Canada and Peru are the largest silver producers, in the order named. Canada is a comparatively recent entry in the list, but the Peruvians have been producing nearly 100 years and Mexico for more than three centuries. Rich in these countries also is a large producer of gold.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.) Emerson C. Carey, Jr., Cornell's football captain and sterling tackle, has a record of 23 tries for point after touchdowns 23 bull's eyes. One of them, against Geneva in the first game of the season, was not scored, however, as a Cornell lineman was off side.

Jack Sharkey is under option to fight only for Hubert Fugazy until February 1, but that won't prevent him from accepting a bout in Syracuse in January. Fugazy has released Sharkey for that one bout. The Boston heavyweight's opponent for his first match since whipping Harry Wills has not been chosen.

In less than four years of college sport activity, Vic Hansen, captain and end of the Syracuse eleven, has led six major sports teams. Hansen headed his freshman football, basketball and baseball squads and later the varsities in the same sports. Hansen also sports a Phi Beta Kappa key, symbol of highest scholastic proficiency.

Monday night at Port Kew the Senior team of that place defeated the Church of the Comforter of Kingston. The final score read 35-22. At half-time Port Kew was on the losing end of a 13-0 score. The afternoon was given over to Mrs. A. Ray Powley, president of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs, who gave an exceptionally interesting and valuable report of the state convention recently held at Binghamton. Mrs. Powley's report was far more concerned with the many angles of human interest shown and developed at the convention than with dry statistics, which made it a living picture of what the women of the state think and do and aspire to do. The next meeting of the Twentieth Century Club will be with Miss Mary Husted at her home, 51 Maiden Lane.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 23 (AP).—Resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market was featured by a series of bullish demonstrations in special issues which give promise of favorable dividend action in the near future or hold prospects of unusually heavy holiday business. With only a slight increase in brokers' loans reported by Federal Reserve Bank last week operators for the rise saw nothing in the credit situation to interfere with their campaign for higher prices.

United States Steel and General Motors continued to receive good buying support, but Baldwin was in rather heavy supply as a result of reiteration of official denials that an early sale of the Philadelphia real estate was contemplated. Rails also were in greater demand following the publication of a series of October earnings statements, making favorable comparison with the same month last year.

Apprehension over the earnings and dividend outlook for New York, Canners and Moon Motors undoubtedly inspired further liquidation of those stocks which sent them to new low levels for the year. On the other hand, Studebaker was marked up at least 2 points above yesterday's final quotation and some of the other automotive shares moved up a point or so.

Commercial Solvents "B" extended its gain to 8 points by early afternoon, and dozens of other issues were pushed up a point or two. Coupers and oils presented new points of strength.

Ensemble Models for Fall Season

Combination Outfit Important Feature of Paris Collections.

Parisian designers have already indicated what they consider a proper vogue for the early fall, and among the costumes shown at the recent style revue are many which follow the lines of spring and summer modes, with straight silhouette in coats with little or no fullness, the simple dresses widened by plaits, and those for dressier wear having irregular movement with fullness usually placed in front.

Contrary to a prevalent rumor, observes a fashion writer in the Detroit News, many modistes still stress the ensemble costume, and make this type of outfit an important feature of their collection, but also have given due thought to sports frocks and evening dresses.

In one collection sports dresses consist of a skirt and jumper, the former of which is generally widened by box or inverted plaits. The jumper is made to resemble a sort of waistcoat or jacket by the fact that it is generally trimmed with a plastron and collar, which appear to be formed by a crepe blouse of a lighter or contrasting shade.

Coat-frocks, of which there are an appreciable number, sometimes closely resemble these suits, the bodice giving a sort of jacket effect. Generally, however, they consist of a plain bodice and a plisse skirt, which is either cut open at the back and front or additionally widened by inverted plaits.

The suit presented for afternoon wear generally consists of a long coat worn over a jumper suit, this latter being very frequently seen, although invariably presented under a novel aspect. Crepe satin is often employed for these costumes, which are generally executed in the dull side of the material and trimmed with shiny bands. The coats, which are often straight, are trimmed with an important fur border inserted in scallops and decorated with a design formed by a gauze embroidery. The skirt worn with the dull crepe satin sweater is often shiny. A most successful navy blue suit has the sweater trimmed with a shiny rounded border, which is repeated on the skirt. Sometimes a novel effect is obtained by a contrasting sweater as in an ensemble consisting of a straight red crepe coat, worn over a red skirt widened at the back and front by an inverted plait and having a red and blue striped sweater. A similar smart navy blue suit has a gray jumper. Ensembles made in cloth or woolen fabrics are most successful and one of the best models is of beige cloth, which has a straight coat worn with a dress widened by rounded panels. It is in this category that some capes coats are still found and it is in this case that a striped or fancy woolen jacket is worn with the dress. Sometimes, however, a cloth or woolen coat is worn over a jumper of two scaled plisse boucles.

Pinks, Blues, Greens and Yellows—Running Riot

Pinks, blues, greens and yellows are running riot at the moment. Not only are these vivid colors seen to the exclusion of the more sober and delicate shades in frocks of plain material, but they are predominant in the flowered geometrics, flannels and crepes de chine which are holding sway in fashion. Black is being little worn and when it appears it is usually as trimming to accentuate the flowered fabrics.

Lines Are Softened

A tendency to soften all lines and give every suggestion of grace and movement is evident in all the latest French models. Capes, jackets and circular coats, are used on the new fall coats.

The Fashion-Blind

There are in the United States 36 state institutions and 36 private schools for feeble-minded children. A somewhat recent census gives the number of inmates of the state institutions as 37,761, while the private ones have 1,300.

Capital Letters

"Caput" in Latin really means a head, and so a chief, and thus it comes about that we speak of "capital" letters to describe those that are used to mark the chief or most important words in a sentence.

When writing started all the words were written in the same hand, and as far as our own alphabet was concerned, mostly in what we now call capital letters. Gradually, however, it was found that one could write more quickly by joining up the letters. Next it occurred to us to emphasize the beginnings of important words by writing them in the old manner, and so we get our "capitals."

Mohammed Used Both Precept and Example

He wore a golden ring until he noticed that all the people were beginning to follow his example, whereupon he went into the pulpit, pulled the ring off with the words: "By the Lord I will not wear this ring ever again," and then prohibited the use of such adornments.

A friend who had sent him a present in the form of a steaming dinner was much chagrined when it was returned uneaten and even untouched by his fingers—for he "used to eat with his thumb and his two forefingers," and "after he had finished eating, he licked his blessed fingers: first the middle one, then the prayer finger, and last the thumb," but he was pacified when the prophet explained that he had not tasted it because onions had been cooked with the food; for Gabriel, he went on to say, strenuously objected to the odor of both onions and garlic. Furthermore, he abstained from tasting lizards, for he feared that they were descended, by some inexplicable metamorphosis, from a certain tribe of Israel.—From "Mohammed," by R. F. Dibble.
